GERMANY'S SIDE.

Her Consul at Samoa Writes a Circular Letter

TO OTHER CONSULS EXPLAINING THE RECENT OCCURRENCES.

He Blames an American Journalist Named A. J. Klein for Causing the Whole Difficulty—Our Cabinet Divided—Congressman Morrow Insists on Prompt Action—German Opinions.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 28.—The Australian steamer which has just arrived here brought a long circular letter, sent by the German consul at Samoa to other German consuls, in explanation of recent occurrences there. After reciting the history of affairs already familiar, the letter says:

"On Sunday, the 16th, about one hundred and twenty sailors received liberty to go ashore. While amusing themselves in various ways, a half-caste, named George Scanlan, with others, who pretend to have American protection, provoked the sailors to such an extent that a street row occurred. Several Samoans joined issue with the half-castes, throwing stones and other missiles at the men-of-war's men. Shots were fired, one of the sailors being wounded in the hand. The half-castes and Samoans also received a rough handling. Early next morning the Olga left Apia for Saluafata where the Eber had been at anchor for some time. On her arrival Dr. Knappe heard an account of how matters had been going on there and was informed that further damage had been done by the rebels. A part of the rebels had come from Lauli during the night with the intention of capturing Mr. Brandeis and his secretary, and also to cut off the heads of the wounded men in the hospital at Eva."

"After consultation between the captains of the men-of-war and the consul and the head of the government, the Olga returned to Apia. It had been agreed during the conference at Saluafata that the German cruiser Adler, with the consul on board, should proceed to Lauli, the headquarters of Mataafa, on Tuesday morning, and the consul was to request the rebel chief to induce his people to throw down their arms, at the same time giving a guarantee that the Tamesese party would do likewise. Unfortunately this friendly action towards the natives was destined not to be carried out, the following details speaking for themselves.

"As there is a large plantation named Vailie situated about two miles on the Apia side of Lauli—that is, between the headquarters of the rebels and the city—it was deemed advisable to place some of the sailors belonging to the Olga there for the purpose of preventing a possible disorderly retreat of the rebels to Apia through the said plantation, and also to protect the latter from further damages. To carry out this intention about one hundred and fifty sailors were put in boats to row down the coast to the plantation. During the night previous rumors were all over the town that a large number of Tamesese soldiers had been brought up from Saluafata by the Olga. This was a pure fabrication. The natives, however, believed it and kept a strict watch from there over the men-of-war."

"An American citizen, a journalist named J. C. Klein, who has been living with the rebels nearly all the time he has been in Samoa—about three months—took a lively interest in the proceedings, going so far as to actually take charge of a portion of the rebels who were in waiting at the Lelepa. The sailors rowed quietly on, not expecting the least danger, and as they kept close in shore, the natives followed them along the beach, calling out to the sailors, who took no notice. About a half mile further on the natives held a hurried council of war under the control of Klein. The natives drew the attention of Klein to the risk they ran if they fired on the man-of-war's men. The persuasive powers of the journalist, however, were too strong for the Samoans, and he induced the people of the island to man their big war canoes and attack and fire upon the German sailors at sea."

"In the meantime the sailors were followed by a large body of natives. Klein then took charge of them and ordered them to fire on the boats. As the man-of-war men approached Fagaili, about a mile from their destination, it was deemed prudent to land half of the men, the other half proceeding on their journey by water outside the reef. As the boats neared the shore Klein gave orders to the natives to fire. The Samoans still were afraid to follow his instructions and Klein therefore set them the example by firing himself. This being the signal for a general attack, the natives followed suit and the sailors joined in, at the same time making in shore as rapidly as possible, effecting a landing on German land amid a shower of bullets."

"Lieut. Spengler, who had charge of the detachment, gave instructions to the men to fix bayonets, and under the guidance of Surveyor Haiden the sailors commenced their perilous march through the bush. The firing on both sides was of a desperate character. The dusky stain of the Samoans assisted them greatly. The white jackets of the sailors, on the other hand, made excellent targets for their numerous opponents. Fighting desperately, the sailors charged the natives, forcing them to give way, the Samoans firing on the man-of-war's men from three sides."

"While the small landing party was making its way to Vailie, the boats containing the sailors outside the reef, under the command of Capt. Lieut. Jaekel, were by orders of Klein fired upon from the war canoes and the natives on shore. They immediately returned the fire while proceeding on their way, and arrived at Vailie a short time before their comrades. The landing party was promptly handled by the natives, but when the sailors reached their destination they were quickly reinforced by their comrades."

"At the homestead of the plantation, the house of Capt. Hufnagel, the manager, they took a covered position and, surrounded by 1,500 rebels, many of them firing from the top of coconut trees, they had to stand a murderous fire for nearly two hours. Here this small party of sailors behaved like heroes and fought desperately against superior numbers, both sides suffering severely. Lieut. Sieger was shot dead. Lieuts. Spengler and Burchard being wounded, only one officer was left to command. The losses on the German side consisted of fifteen killed and twenty-nine severely and nine slightly wounded."

"The German gunboat Eber then hove in sight, and at 8 o'clock landed a detachment. The cruiser Adler also coming into view, the natives slowly retired. A further reinforcement was landed from the Adler, when the sailors formed into line and with loud hurrahs drove the Samoans off the plantation. The latter retreated in great disorder, numbers of them making for Apia."

"It is sad to have to relate that during the engagements the Samoans hacked off the heads of three of the unfortunate man-of-war's men, one of them having only been slightly wounded in the leg. This barbarous custom is usual with the natives when at war. The actual number of Samoans killed is not known, but it is stated that twenty-eight lost their lives, a great number being wounded."

"Heretofore it has not been known in the history of Samoa that the natives ever ventured to fight against European power, and the malicious and cunning nature of the attack is not at all in accordance with Samoan character."

"On Christmas day the American schooner arrived here. The news rapidly spread that some 35,000 rounds of ammunition were on board. To save further bloodshed the German consul wrote to W. Blacklock, the United States vice consul, requesting him to use his influence to stop the sale of cartridges. In reply Mr. Blacklock stated that he could not interfere with any goods consigned to American citizens."

"The German consul again wrote to the American representatives, offering to purchase the cartridges, at the same time leaving the ammunition in Mr. Blacklock's charge as a guarantee that it was not bought for the use of the followers of Mataafa. The United States vice consul met this friendly offer by referring Dr. Knappe to J. H. Moore, an American trader here, who has done more mischief in Samoa than any other man in the south seas by selling since the beginning of the Samoan troubles arms and ammunition to the natives, and who has endeavored to make this business more profitable—100 cartridges for $11—by inciting the rebels against the government."

Words With the Bark On.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—Representative Morrow, of California, who is the chairman of the sub-committee of the house committee on foreign affairs, intends to call the sub-committee together and get to work at the earliest opportunity. He says that his views on Samoan affairs are positive, and have been made known through the resolution introduced by him in the house last session.

The status quo at the time the representatives of the United States, Germany and England met, he says, must be restored, and this would necessitate the replacement of King Malletoh in the position from which he was so unjustly removed by the German agents and sent to the Marshall Islands. This step, Mr. Morrow insisted, must be a preliminary to any further negotiations on the subject.

Mr. Herbert, chairman of the naval committee of the house, has not yet received a response to his letter to Secretary Whitney, inviting suggestions as to any amendments that may, in his judgment, be necessary to meet any emergency that may arise as the result of the Samoan affair. It is apparent that the members of the committee are entirely willing to comply with any reasonable request of the navy department in this respect.

The committee, in its report on the naval appropriation bill, noted with satisfaction that the contractors for supplying gun forgings and armor plate for the navy expect to begin deliveries of material in March next, although they are not required to do so by the terms of their contracts before February, 1890, and there is some talk of stimulating them to greater efforts by making an appropriation for a bonus to be paid for early deliveries of material.

Split in the Cabinet.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—The cabinet is far from harmonious in the Samoan matter. Some insist upon prompt action, and others prefer a policy of caution. Whitney and Dickinson would serve immediate warning upon Germany that further interference in the international affairs of Samoa would be regarded as a violation of our rights under our treaty with Samoa and our agreements with Germany herself, and that it would be resented by the United States. Their policy would be to say to Germany, in most unmistakable terms, "hands off," and to send to Samoa a force sufficient to enforce the decree.

But from the other members Whitney and Dickinson receive little encouragement. Fairchild inclines to Bayard's policy of caution, and so does Endicott. Garland's position is with the secretary of the state. Vilas, too, is a man of patience and long suffering and peace at almost any price. The president is more in accord with Whitney and Dickinson than with the others, and which he throws his weight entirely on that side, as it is believed he will before long, numbers will not prevail. The last two cabinet meetings were regular field days in the cabinet room. Some of the members lost their tempers and patience with others.

It is reported the relations between the state and navy department were very much strained and the correspondence between Whitney and Representative Herbert is said to be due to chafing to which the secretary's spirit is subjected by the fact that the navy department must necessarily wait in this matter for the action of the department of state.

The instructions cabled to Admiral Kimberly when he was ordered to Samoa were not instructions which Whitney, if left to himself, would have given, but were framed and approved by the cabinet. It is suggested by a leading member of the diplomatic corps that Bismarck would probably be in no hurry to bring about a termination of the present difficulty.

"Bismarck," said he, "realizes that the German government has a navy by no means commensurate with its position among the great powers of Europe. A war cloud like this will not only furnish ample justification for keeping up the great army Germany now has, but it will be used as an argument for the building of enough great vessels of war to put the German empire into the front rank as a maritime power. Bismarck is a great schemer."

Reflecting Harrison's Wishes.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—It is announced that in advocating the amendments to the diplomatic bill and dealing with all the various foreign complications Sherman reflects Harrison's wishes. As Harrison will have these affairs on his hands he naturally has a greater interest in the present legislation than any one else. Blaine, it is said, is being consulted about all the measures proposed.

It is not what may be thought of Samoa to-day, but what are the possible relations of those islands to our future commercial greatness. The senate will agree to the amendment, but in the house another difficulty will arise. The administration has already urged an immediate appropriation of $100,000 for the establishment of a coaling station at Pango Pango, which will be incorporated in the house.

The reasons for the further appropriation of $500,000 for a secret fund cannot be divulged in open debate. Such a large amount has never been given except under stress of circumstances, and when explanations would defeat the very object had in giving it. Such liberality has never been known in the house, and if the measure should be defeated its urgency, it is claimed, would be among the reasons for convening the Fifty-first congress promptly in extra session.

German Opinions.

BERLIN, Jan. 28.—The National Zeitung, referring to the action of the senatorial committee at Washington on the Samoan affair, says that the measures for the protection of the autonomy of the Samoan islands are superfluous, because it is not threatened by any one. The sole interest of America consists in not allowing good relations with Germany to be jeopardized by a few intriguing adventurers.

The Vossische Zeitung, criticising the argument in the Cologne Gazette, heads that it would be a mistake to attach no importance to the measures taken by President Cleveland merely because he is to be shortly succeeded by Mr. Harrison. It points out that the authority for dealing with foreign affairs rests with the committee of the senate, and warns the semi-official press that it would be unwise to try to appease the German public with "fallacious illusions."

America Can Hold Her Own.

LONDON, Jan. 28.—Lord Salisbury had a long interview with Count Von Halzfeldt the German ambassador yesterday. The premier was indisposed to accept the views entertained by Germany regarding the Samoa and Zanzibar difficulties, which he said were inducing distrust on all sides.

The admiralty is preserving a mysterious silence with regard to the naval reinforcements in Samoa and Zanzibar waters.

It is stated at the foreign office that the United States government is thoroughly in earnest in the stand it has taken in Samoa. American naval officers in Samoa, it is said, express complete confidence in their ability to hold their own against anything they may have to contend with.

Germany Inspecting Us.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—Mr. Petry, technical attaché of the German legation, has just arrived in Washington direct from Berlin. His mission is supposed to broadly cover a comprehensive and rapid survey of the military and naval resources of the United States for defense and offense. Particularly, he is presumed to inspect the harbor defenses of the principal seaports, and incidentally to make a report on our ability to command sea-going steamers which could be speedily converted into commerce-destroying privateers.

A Letter From Klein.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—The World announces that it will shortly publish a letter from Klein, its Samoan correspondent, which will put recent affairs in Samoa in a somewhat different light from that in which they are represented by the German consul in his circular.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—Miss Rose Elizabeth Cleveland was registered at the San Juan hotel, Orlando, Fla., on Wednesday, having arrived on the afternoon south-bound

She has a five-acre orange grove and a cozy six-room cottage there, the latter all arranged for occupancy. She will spend the winter there and engage in literary work. She is anxious to finish a novel before spring.

HE OBJECTS TO RUSSIA SENDING COLONIES TO ABYSSINIA.

And Would Have Written a Note to Them Saying So—The Object of the Settlement a Mystery—The Deposition of Bulgaria's Ruler Not Likely to Take Place Soon. Other Foreign News.

LONDON, Jan. 28.—The news comes from Rome that Signor Crispi being to establish an additional grievance against the czar to be added to those already in store. The asseverations of Alexander that the enterprise is altogether a private one and undertaken against the wishes of the authorities are not believed in Italy, or in fact anywhere else. Precisely what the object of the intruders is in attempting a settlement in that grave yard of Europeans can not as yet be conjectured, nor why the Italians wish a monopoly of it as a cemetery for their soldiers.

Ferdinand's Deposition.

LONDON, Jan. 28.—The speedy deposition of Prince Ferdinand from the throne of Bulgaria is announced with such confidence that it is safe to believe it will not take place for some time yet.

To the quiet satisfaction of on-lookers the prince has kept his seat against odds that might have well daunted men with more reputation for determination and ability. Heralded as an ignorant puppet and a makeshift whose reign would scarcely last more than a few months he has played off the incongruous parties in his little realm against each other with such skill as to force the admission from some of the wisest heads in Europe that they were much mistaken in his calibre.

In spite of the orthodox bishops he will keep his throne for a while yet and when he retires it will not be so quietly as his opponents imagine. It would gladden the hearts of the English queen and relieve her mind of a perpetually anticipated demand upon her purse if Alexander of Battenberg should be reinstated in the position from which he was so summarily ousted. She was always credited with a desire to see her poor relations doing well at some one else's expense, but if Alexander goes back to Sofia he will return as the tool of the czar and against the strong opposition of Austria and Germany.

A Thrifty Emperor.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 28.—The Japan Gazette of January 4, says: "It is rumored among the respectable class of natives, says the Foochow Echo, that China will annex Corea after the emperor's marriage, and the present king and his family will be deposed, and that Marquis Tseng will be appointed viceroy of Corea."

Foreign Notes.

The scheme to establish a Russian bank at Teheran has been abandoned.

The last of the British troops have left Suakin. The command of the Egyptian garrison devolved on Col. Halled Smith.

Friday was the third anniversary of the death of Gen. Gordon, and his statue in Trafalgar square, London, was covered with flowers and wreaths in memory of the brave soldier.

A dispatch to the London Times from Zanzibar says the sultan is practically bankrupt on account of the unjust treatment he has received at the hands of the East African German company.

Timothy Healy said in an interview that Mr. O'Brien would probably surrender to the authorities at Carrick-on-Suir. His appeals from the sentence he said, would secure him a few weeks' undisturbed freedom.

The German emperor and empress gave a diplomatic dinner Friday evening to the ambassadors of Italy, Russia, Austria, France, Spain and Great Britain and their wives, the Turkish ambassador, the military attaches of the embassies named and Count Herbert Bismarck.

Two reports will be presented to the public by the new Panama canal company as the result of the recent meeting. One will be made by the temporary organization and the other by Count De Lesseps, the latter expressing his gratitude for the presentation of a complete collapse of the enterprise.

In consequence of the recent news discriminating against foreigners, the Russo-Polish mines several contented enterprises there have been abandoned and the result will undoubtedly be the temporary prostration of many industries which were established by German capital.

Ives and Stayner Arrested.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—Henry S. Ives and George H. Stayner, the bankers, whose transactions created such a stir some time since, have been arrested by sheriff's officers on an order issued by Judge O'Brien, of the supreme court. The complaint is based on their dealings with the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton railroad. Bail was fixed at $250,000.

THERE'LL be no more legal hangings in Ohio. That great State has patterned after New York, and hereafter when the death sentence is to be meted out to a criminal it will be done by electricity. Hanging is no longer the style.

CINCINNATI is taking every advantage of the trouble between the Louisville tobacco warehousemen and the big manufacturers. It looks like the Louisville warehousemen have put their foot in it, and their experience will probably teach them a lesson. The grower, of course, will sell in the best market, and Louisville must maintain her reputation in that regard if she wishes to retain the trade.

IT BEGINS to look like the colored Republicans will not be satisfied any longer with mere promises, and if they are not recognized in a substantial manner by the incoming administration there will be a "wow" in the camp, and a pretty serious one, too. Their vote is very necessary to insure their party's success in a number of States, and they are getting ready to impress this fact on General Harrison. At least that's the way things look at present.

RECENTLY the Associated Press correspondent at Pittsburg spread the news broadcast over the country that English manufacturers of tin-plate had contributed the enormous sum of $1,000,000 to defeat the clause in the Senate tariff bill imposing a heavy duty on that article. The story was absurd on its face almost, but it was no doubt believed by many whose minds have been warped by partisan feelings. It turns out that the fellow who started the story is a crank.

"The Tariff is a Tax."

Of course it would be useless to try to convince Brother Davis of the Republican, that "the tariff is a tax." He is wedded to his protection idols, and is a devout worshiper at their shrine. However, we commend the following to his thoughtful consideration. The New York World says:

"Now that the election is over and there is no immediate need of bamboozling the voters a Republican leader admits that the tariff is a tax."

"Senator Allison, in the debate on the sugar bounty, declared that the proposed reduction of one-half in the duty 'would save $22,000,000 to the consumers of sugar in this country, even after the proposed bounty was paid.' It is well to record the confession that the tariff is a tax and that the consumer pays it."

"In regard to the proposed bounty of one cent a pound to the manufacturers of domestic sugar there will, of course, be no disputing that this would be a tax also. Every other producer or worker in the country would be taxed to pay a bounty of $1 per 100 pounds to the manufacturers of sugar."

"And who would profit by this? The cane-growers, the sorghum and beet raisers? Not a bit of it! The bounty would simply be a bonus to Trusts. The present Sugar Trust fixes the price of raw material. The same or a new Trust would monopolize the business of refining the products of the canestalks or beets and fix arbitrarily the price which should be paid to the farmers. The Trust would add the bounty to its own profits—thus robbing the people with two hands instead of one."

"The monopoly-protecting Senate is a schoolmaster in the campaign of education."

Not So.

Editor Bulletin—I see in your paper of January 22nd that the Daily Irontonian, of Ironton, O., says that J. J. McCarthy jumped that city and did not pay his board bill. I will say that my board bill was paid and I never owed W. S. Levi $40 in my life, and W. S. Levi was not known as L. F. Sigman's general agent only by himself. The editor of the Irontonian had better find out the truth of tales he may hear before he publishes them.

C. G. Worthington has been on the sick list for several days.

The latest query is, "Who has lost a bad cold?" Everybody has one, and no one wants it.

A great many of the farmers are getting pretty well through stripping tobacco and are ready to sell.

Mrs. Mary A. Collins, of Cane Ridge, Bourbon County, is here visiting her daughter, Mrs. J. A. Jackson.

All those who subscribed to assist the Colored Christian Church in this place and have not paid will please hand their amounts to George Myall. They have their church up and need the money to pay for it.

J. A. Jackson has a large stock of woolen goods, cottons, comforts and blankets, which he is offering at prime cost, and an endless variety of the very best makes of ladies' and children's shoes at bottom prices. Give him a call. Patronize home.

A SHOE FACTORY.

A Cincinnati Firm Will Locate Here if Proper Inducements are Offered.

CINCINNATI, O., January 28, 1889.

Editor Bulletin: Give me space to say a few words about what seems to be uppermost in the minds of Maysville's most progressive citizens at this time, to-wit: the attraction of manufacturing industries.

I left Maysville about three months ago, simply because I was looking for a larger field and livelier place. The actions of her citizens at that time were not such as led one to expect a change in the somewhat slow and plodding way the town had fallen into.

But a change is aye has taken place. I am glad of this, for I have great affection for the old town and its people and can't see why a "boom" may not be set on foot that will result in lasting good.

As I before stated, I left Maysville to find a more inviting place than it was to do business in. I came to Cincinnati and entered into the shoe manufacturing business. What I want to say, Mr. Editor, is this, I don't know of a better place in a dozen States for just such a business than Maysville. Maysville has a good location, shipping facilities and capital, so that all it needs is an awakening as it were, a bringing-out the latent energy that is in the place to make it a manufacturing city of no mean proportions.

Now, without mincing matters, or beating about the bush, let me say that the firm to which I belong is ready to communicate with your manufacturing association to learn what inducements are to be offered to manufacturers to locate in Maysville.

Hunt old fogies to the rear. Let men, progressive and energetic, come to the front and the good old town may soon have a dozen or more manufacturing plants, and not the least beneficial, as I believe, would be a good shoe factory.

Respectfully,

R. L. TUDOR.

Rev. W. S. Priest.

At a meeting of the ministers of Maysville on Saturday, January 26th, the following paper was passed touching the departure of Rev. W. S. Priest from our city:

WHEREAS, Rev. W. S. Priest has resigned the pastorate of the Christian Church here in order to accept another charge in a neighboring city, therefore

Resolved, That we take pleasure in expressing our confidence in the personal and ministerial character of Bro. Priest; that we recognize and appreciate his faithful and untiring service in preaching the gospel and in laboring among the people, and that we heartily commend him to the good fellowship and kindly offices of those among whom his lot in the future will be cast, and especially to the God of all grace whose blessing we earnestly pray may rest upon him in all his work for the Master.

Dress and Fashion.

[New York World.]

Jewelled hairpins and combs are worn with dressy toilets.

Stockings and slippers now must often match the gown in color for evening wear.

Very full, large scarfs, slightly puffed outward, are in vogue this season for men's wear.

Satin and undressed kid slippers are preferred to all others for dinner and evening toilets.

Little girls now wear long circular cloaks, smocked to a considerable depth around the throat.

Long gloves are worn less wrinkled on the arm than formerly, and there is greater liberty of choice in shades of gray, tan and cream color.

Manicure sets of silver are now displayed on a silver tray, the bottom of which is covered with bright colored plush or velvet mats.

The latest in letter paper are large sheets of rough surface with a clover leaf in one corner, that folded four times slips into a square envelope of usual size.

Some of the season's bonnets are entirely formed of large wings of birds, while others are supplied with wings embroidered in chenille and tinsel thread on felt or cloth.

THE Chicago Times runs into rhyme in celebrating the superexcellent maids of that town:

Tall, statuesque, graceful and queenly,
 Robed in a fabric exhaling perfume,
 Languidly fanning, she sits there serenely—
 Papa got rich by a real estate "boom"—
 Knowing she triumphs, enjoying it keenly,
 Luring the bachelors on to their doom.

Sweet Cider All the Year.

[Clinton Democrat.]

Mr. Elzey, living near Bardwell, in Carlisle, Ky., has a splendid apple orchard, and, as an experiment, a few years ago had a cistern dug eighteen feet deep and nine feet in diameter, cemented thoroughly, making a cistern which holds several hundred barrels. He then arranged a trough from his cider mill to the cistern, continuing the manufacture of cider until the cistern was full. This kept nice and sweet all the year. When he wanted cider he would work the pump. If an order for a barrel, he soon pumped it. He keeps sweet cider all the year, and his cistern never goes dry.

RAILROAD NEWS.

The Reorganized C. and O. Making Every Arrangement for Traffic Over the New Line.

Traffic over the Cincinnati Division of the C. and O. will be largely increased at an early day.

The Cincinnati Enquirer says the officials of the reorganized C. and O. are making the most advantageous arrangements for business over the new line.

The latest move is in the shape of an agreement with the Louisville and Nashville Company for transacting the C. and O.'s business between Louisville and Cincinnati over the L. C. and L. Division of the L. and N. If arrangements to this effect are not already closed, says the Enquirer, it will be but a few days before everything is satisfactorily settled.

The business from Louisville destined for points on the Chesapeake and Ohio is at present carried over the Louisville and Nashville to Lexington, where it is turned over to the Elizabeth-town, Lexington and Big Sandy, and goes over that line to Huntington, where the C. and O. proper is struck. So with business west-bound destined to Louisville and points west thereof. It comes over the E. L. and B. S. to Lexington and then over the L. and N. Railroad into Louisville. This gives the E. L. and B. S. a haul of one hundred and thirty-nine miles from Huntington, and the Louisville and Nashville a ninety-four-mile haul between Lexington and Louisville.

The reorganized C. and O. wants all of the haul possible on this through business, and although the Huntington lines—the E. L. and B. S. and K. C.—will be cut out, the reorganized C. and O. will reap the benefit of the new arrangement. If freight or passengers from Louisville destined to points on the new C. and O. were brought by way of the L. and N. to Lexington, and K. C. from Lexington to Covington, and delivered over at Covington to the C. and O., the haul would be ninety-four miles over the L. and N., Louisville to Lexington, and ninety-eight miles, K. C., to Covington, or 192 miles between Louisville and Covington. Under the new arrangement of C. and O. will get all the haul on business to and from Louisville except the one hundred and ten miles via the L. and N. between Newport and Louisville, General Manager Metcalfe, of the L. and N., was at Cincinnati consulting with C. and O. officials regarding the putting in of switches, &c., where the C. and O. crosses the L. and N. in Newport. At this point through business from Louisville will be turned over to the C. and O., and vice versa. Passenger business is to be worked over the same route.

Track-laying has commenced at Georgetown on the Kentucky Midland.

PEYTON I. KEY.

An Aged and Esteemed Citizen Passes Peacefully Away This Morning.

The venerable Peyton I. Key died this morning shortly before five o'clock at the family residence a few miles from this city. He had been in declining health from general debility consequent upon old age for some time, and had been confined to his home several weeks. His last moments were free from suffering, however, as he complained of no aches or pains whatever. It was the peaceful ending of a life well spent.

The deceased was a native of Mason County. He was born in July, 1807, and consequently was nearly eighty-two years of age. His wife, who survives him, was a Miss Rankins, of Bracken County. He leaves but two children, Messrs. James B. and William R. Key, who are among Mason County's thriftiest and most enterprising farmer citizens.

The funeral will take place Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock at the family residence, after which the remains will be interred at Washington.

The deceased was well known throughout the county, and was highly esteemed by his neighbors and acquaintances.

GOOD FOR ANOTHER TERM.

Joseph Alvin Sparks Returned to Powell County to Answer the Charge of Horse Stealing.

The contractors on the Kentucky Union Railroad have had a force of hands at work on the grading in Powell County for some time.

Five or six weeks ago Joseph Alvin Sparks, one of the employees, disappeared "between two days."

A mule belonging to the contractors and a pistol and silver watch belonging to some of Sparks' fellow-workmen were missed also the morning after the mule and Sparks disappeared.

The conclusion was arrived at at once that Sparks had stolen the property and skipped the country. He was heard of in a few days in Bourbon County where he sold the mule.

Mr. James K. Sroufe, one of the engineers on the Kentucky Union, was in Maysville shortly afterwards and informed Deputy Marshal Dawson of the matter.

That officer had heard of Mr. Sparks and knew that he formerly lived in Lewis County. Last week Mr. Dawson located his man at a point near Poplar Flat. He notified Constables Thomas Blount and W. D. Hendrixson, of Lewis, and had them make the arrest. This they succeeded in doing without much trouble. They brought Sparks here last Saturday morning and turned him over to Mr. Dawson.

Saturday afternoon the accused was taken before Mayor Pearce, who made an order directing Mr. Dawson to return Sparks to Powell County for trial. One guard was allowed to assist in taking the accused back.

Mr. Dawson and Mr. W. A. Stockdale left on the early train this morning with their prisoner.

The watch and pistol have not been recovered, but the officers know where they are and will get them in a few days.

There was a reward of $50 or $100 out for Sparks, which will be divided among the three officers.

Sparks has served time in the "pen," having been given a short sentence a few years ago for horse stealing.

CAPTAIN L. H. WILLIAMS, of Ripley, has been elected Grand Prelate of the Knights of Pythias, of Ohio. He is a member of the Masons and Oddfellows, and is prominently mentioned as the next Department Commander of the G. A. R. of the Buckeye State.

MRS. MAGGIE WILLETT died last Friday night at her home in Covington. She had been ill but a short time. The remains were brought to this city Saturday night and will be interred at Washington this afternoon at 2 o'clock after funeral services at St. Patrick's Church. The deceased was a daughter of Mr. Martin King, of Front street. Her husband, Mr. Robert Willett, and four sons survive her.

A TEMPORARY organization of the Musical Club of this city has been effected. The membership at present consists of Misses Wilkins, Berry and Wheeler and Messrs. Charles Rosenau, Frank Ellis, Dr. DeWitt C. Franklin, Clarence Mathews and J. I. Mathews. It is the purpose of the club to invite others to join and to meet the first Wednesday in February at the residence of Mrs. Lucy Keith for permanent organization. The object of the club is to bring together and encourage all the musical talent available among our young people.

The number of sheep in the United States is placed at 50,000,000 and the wool product at 250,000,000 pounds.

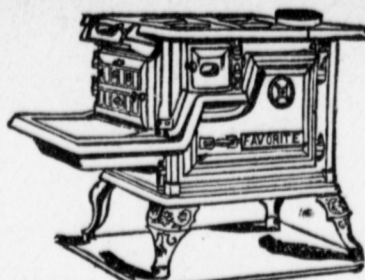

The United States imported 15,620,000 dozen eggs the last fiscal year, and over 13,000,000 dozen the year before, mostly from Canada.

Dan Swigert bought Elmendorf in 1881 from the late M. H. Sanford. Since then he has held seven yearling sales, at which he has sold 307 colts and fillies for the large sum of $295,085, a general average of $961.18.—Courier-Journal.

The first horse to trot a mile in three minutes or better was an animal called Boston Blue, that performed the feat long ago as 1818, but it was not until 1840 that the 2:40 mark was reached. Four years later Lady Suffolk went a mile in 2:26½ and in 1859 Flora Temple beat 2:20 for the first time.

BRADSTREET'S.

Present Condition of Trade and Forecast of the Future.

THE SALE OF WINTER GOODS CHECKED BY WARM WEATHER.

There is no Special Activity in the Several Lines, But Trade is of Seasonable Proportions—An Unsettled Feeling Prevails in the Iron Trade Throughout the Country—Failures.

New York, Jan. 28.—Bradstreet's State of Trade says:

Special telegrams do not report a continuance of the more favorable features of a week ago. A recurrence of mild, unseasonable weather has checked the movement of winter goods somewhat, notably clothing and heavy dry goods at Kansas City, Chicago, St. Joseph, Omaha, Cincinnati, in the south and in the northwest.

At most centers the volume of several lines of trade is of seasonable proportions, particularly dry goods, groceries, hardware and lumber and paper at New York; there is no special activity, and the condition and the outlook are fairly satisfactory.

The prospect for the lake ship building interests is reported from Cleveland to be good.

Hogs are twenty to thirty cents lower at Kansas City, and cattle lower than for a year. Stock speculation hesitates and waits for the appearance of further effects of the recent demoralization of railroad interests and for the conclusion of the work of pacification now in progress at Chicago. Appearances are more favorable and bear operations are measurably checked, resulting in a recovery of prices. Bonds, especially prime investments, are in active demand and prices are advancing. There were 679 strikes reported in 1888, involving 211,341 employees, a decline from 1887 of 23 per cent. in the number of strikes, and of 38 per cent. in strikers.

An unsettled feeling prevails in the iron trade in all parts of the country, as the tendency in prices is downward. Pig iron has been shaded on all varieties except a few choice brands. There is a rumored cut on steel rails below the nominal $27 per ton, and in other respects the market might be improved. There are no special changes to note in refined sugars beyond mere stillness in the views of holders, and a steadier market in consequence. Raw has been in light demand and is off one-sixteenth cent at New York. Wheat is off three and three-fourths cents per bushel on the week, and flour five to ten cents per barrel. There appears to be a growing suspicion that the "statistical position" of wheat throughout the world for the bull side of the market is not as strong as had been believed. Bradstreet's has calculated, with latest data as to foreign wants and supplies to August 1 next, that there are now in the United States, on both coasts, 26,000,000 bushels available for export to July 1, 1889.

The local export of wheat (and flour as wheat) from the United States this week is 1,801,665 bushels, against 1,301,646 bushels in the like week of 1888. The aggregate shipped July 1, to date, is 57,000,000 bushels, against 81,706,000 bushels in 1887-88. Raw wool is quiet and unchanged. Buyers are holding off for the London sales next Tuesday. Raw cotton is one-sixteenth cent lower on a heavy crop movement and the consequent encouragement given thereby to the larger estimates.

Business failures number 331 in the United States this week, against 358 last week, and 259 this week last year.

M'GLYNN TO CORRIGAN.

He Charges the Bishop with Dishonesty and False Representation.

New York, Jan. 28.—Dr. McGlynn has written an open letter to Archbishop Corrigan in reply to the latter's order, directing the refusal of absolution to members of the Anti-Poverty society. He denies emphatically that the holy see and persons connected with it have been the habitual subject of speeches at the society's meetings and in no case has the holy see been reviled, nor have the persons or things that the archbishop calls sacred been exposed to ridicule.

To assert the doctrine of the society he says is to adhere to true religion, both natural and revealed, while to deny them, as he claims the archbishop does, should make him and his teachings fit subjects for the reprehension and condemnation of the pope and inquisition. He accuses the archbishop of dishonesty in having falsely presented the matter.

Floods at Montreal.

At Lachine the water is five feet higher than it was this time last year. It rose a foot Thursday night, and is now only two feet from the top of the pier. If the water gets above the pier it will come down behind the dike and swamp the district.
